1 Scrubbing brush, 20th century. A scrubbing brush like this would have been used by servants such as scullery maids, to scrub the floors.

2 Black leading powder, c1910-1919. This black leading powder by Crane's bears the slogan, 'the servant's friend'. Servants used black leading powder to keep fireplace grates clean and polished.

3 Menu cards, c1930-1939. These menu cards were kept by Alice Locke, who was a kitchen maid at Normanby Hall. She wrote the menu in French and displayed it on the family's dining table each day.

4 Chatelaine, 20th century. A chatelaine was usually carried by the housekeeper. It had chains on which to attach the important keys of the house, as well as handy items such as needles, thread and scissors.